

Terminology - Information objects? Class? Entity?

GSIM uses term "information object" - should we change it to be aligned with other standards?

For example, during revision of GSIM Communication Paper, a comment was made "Class is a term used by UML, the representation language of the GSIM model. In UML, an object is an instance of a class, so the term is confusing for those who know UML."